Popular Local Couple Are Wed In City

A pretty wedding of interest here took place in the Social Room of the First Presbyterian Church in Edmonton on Wednesday evening, March 15th, when Miss Anna Marie Ellen Bengtson only daughter of Mrs. L.E. Bengtson of Ribstone became the bride of Sigma. Charlie Edward Lilly R. C. Signals, third son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lilly of Wainwright.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother Oscar, was charming in a floor length gown of white sheer with full skirt and sequin trimmings and a blue and white sash. She carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Miss Esther Johnson, cousin of the bride acted as bridesmaid and was prettily attired in a floor length blue sheer with lace inset, and wearing a blue chapel veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of spring flowers.

Mr. Allen Dixon of Wainwright supported the groom as best man.

Miss Ruth Ruste supplied the wedding music during the ceremony and Mrs. Fred Sheffield sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

A reception was held after the ceremony for some twenty guests at the Royal George hotel. To receive Mrs. L.E. Bengtson chose a dress of dusty rose with navy accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. A. J. Lilly received the guests in a gown of brown with beige accessories and had a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

A short honeymoon was spent in Edmonton before the groom returned to his army duties at Grande Prairie.

Musical Evening At Convent

On Thursday evening last the teachers and pupils of St. Joseph's Academy were given a musical treat consisting of violin, piano and vocal numbers by the members of the music class. The pupils are to be commended for the skilful rendition of the various pieces. In keeping with the spirit of St. Patrick's day there were three Irish vocal solos and two violin selections.

An entertaining program followed with a number of the music students taking part very efficiently.

AT THE FRONT

When listeners hear the voice of Mat thew Halton, Marcel Oulmet, or any of the other CBC correspondents reporting from the battle area, it's because the Unit's engineers have plenty of pluck and steady nerves, for without the engineers the front-line broadcast would not be possible. Here is Lloyd Moore, member of the engineering staff in Montreal, now on duty overseas.

Sydenham Family Given Farewell

A pleasant gathering was held on Friday afternoon at Sydenham School when friends and neighbors met with the school children at a farewell for Mrs. Klippert and daughters.

Everyone had a jolly time playing Bingo. Mrs. Klippert was presented with a pair of blankets and two comforters with the very best wishes of the community for her and her family in their new home near Rimby, Irene, Elizabeth and Dorothy were each given a bookmark from the Sydenham Sunday School.

Moved by Mr. Smale that the Secretary write the Swartz Iron and Metal Company Limited, 299 Jarvis Avenue, Winnipeg, for further particulars regarding culverts advertised.

When the soldiers get their vote let's give them a program to vote for - not just abuses to vote against.

United Ch. Honors Mr. & Mrs. Schlitt

The United Church congregation met in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening, March 14th to honor Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Schlitt and Iris who are leaving to make their home in Camrose. About one hundred were present and a happy evening was spent. Mrs. W. Clark presided at the piano for a jolly sing song. A hat trimming contest under direction of Mrs. P. May and an "Animate Alphabet" game conducted by Mrs. A.D. Richard were favorite games.

Mr. L. W. Smith, on behalf of the United Church congregation spoke fittingly of the faithful helpful services of Mr. and Mrs. Schlitt on the Official Church Board, the Womens Association and the Womens' Missionary Society as well as in community work. He then presented the honored guests with a fine occasional chair, as a gift of remembrance. Miss Annie Callas made a presentation to Iris on behalf of the C.G.I.T. of which she had been vice president. Mr. Schlitt in expressing their thanks spoke of their happy associations they had enjoyed here.

A delicious lunch was served under the able condescension of Mrs. Geo. Clark.

FACE UP

Folks who want their faces lifted, Need to have their thinking shifted. It's worry, fear and mental lag That make our facial muscles sag. The nation's needs can only be met With men. Industry must give as much thought to producing men as to producing materials.

Human relations are the attitude of a whole company, not just a job for one department.

The way to lasting peace - find something to fight for so big it leaves nothing to fight about.

Bacon Show Big Success

The Wiltshire Bacon Show held in the Elite theatre, Wainwright on March 14th proved to be one of the most successful agricultural events undertaken in this district for some time. The program under the chairmanship of T.W. Townley-Smith, District Agriculturist, opened with the film "Bacon for Britain." In this film hogs were followed step by step from Canadian farms to the overseas market.

Mr. P. Wyllie, Sheep and Swine Promoter, Alberta Department of Agriculture, addressed the audience dealing with factors entering into costs of production. Figures produced showed a five year average return of approximately $6.00 per hog over labour costs. Emphasis on the value of the swine industry in Alberta (over fifty per cent of total for all livestock products) was followed by discussion of each of buildings, breeding stock, feed costs, quantities and ratios as factors in the total cost. A very interesting point developed by this speaker was the fact that a B3 carcass that weighed in at 179 lbs. brought only 55 cents more to the producer than an A carcass that weighed 159 lbs.

Mr. A. O. Colbert, Fieldman for the Production Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture explained those points on which carcasses were graded in a packing plant. Each carcass was dissected and reasons given for its grade. "Had the B3 carcass on display been marketed at proper weight it would undoubtedly have been judged best in the show" said Mr. Colbert in explaining that nearly all carcasses displayed were of satisfactory type for one of the premium grades had these been marketed at the proper finish and weight. Samples of bacon "rashers" cut from Wiltshire sides made from A and C carcasses were displayed. Good and poor sides were also cut to show difference as these appear to the consumer.

Over 125 persons, including farmers from Chauvin, Czar, Irma, as well as intermediate and local points were in attendance, many taking part in the question period. The thanks of the meeting were expressed to the local committee of the Shipping Association, and to Mr. R.C. Greer who were responsible for the local arrangements.

Local farmers who had carcasses included in this display as being representative of the district shipment were: F. Minter, Wainwright; H. Driver, Wainwright; Val Pare, Fabian; G. Boyd, Wainwright; R. A. Deyell, Wainwright; D. Rattray, Wainwright; R. Sargeant, Greenshield; J. Tulnean, Wainwright; R. McNern, Heath.

Short Open Season For Muskrat Hunting

The Game Branch, department of lands and mines, is declaring an open season on muskrats, during the period March 15th to April 29th, both dates inclusive, in that part of the province lying to the south of the North Saskatchewan river. The trapping must be done on a limited trapper's licence, the fee for which is $2.00 and obtainable from any Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment or game guardian in the area. The license will permit any person who is the owner, purchaser under an agreement for sale or lessee of land in that part of the province lying to the south of the North Saskatchewan river, which land is used for farming or ranching purposes, as well as any member of such person's immediate family, such as a parent or a child over the age of sixteen years actually residing on the land or some part thereof, to trap muskrats on his own land or adjoining land. The shooting or spearing of muskrats is prohibited.

No Bells Available

One can't buy a decent bell now, of course. That is one of the vanished things. I only hope that lacquer-varnish hasn't gone too, because I hope to give my suede high boots a couple of coats to make them waterproof. Boots are quite a problem now, owing to the leather shortage. I have seen some very smart home-made sandals with rope soles - made from clothes-line and braid - but I have yet to meet somebody who could wangle waterproof boots. I am wondering if one could contrive cycling over-shoes out of rubber soles and canvas tops soaked in linseed oil. No doubt somebody, eventually, will hit on something. And you'd be surprised to see how nice these 'wangle' look when they are neatly finished. It is fun, too, working them out. My friend who made the gardening-and-housework aprons out of old sacks sold them well for the Red Cross; and very saucy they looked, with their outline and big pockets edged with bright colors.

Well, the Hun, just lately has started his night-antics, and Alerts and All-Clears are once more a feature; but now it is just a nuisance and not really very much more. Of course, we aren't foolish enough to tell ourselves that it is 'practically all over,' but I think we can see the end somewhere in the distance. It's a far cry from the days when most of our nights were hideous, and when the Home Guards - bless 'em! - had the prospect of putting up a show with out-of-date firearms and pitch-forks. Everybody knows about that now, so I'm not giving away any military secrets! All the same, had I been an enemy parachutist, I don't think I should have looked forward very brightly to meeting an enraged countryman with a pitchfork. I can think of happier encounters.

NOTE FOR

TO-DAY

Their gift is not in golden coin:
 In higher values must we measure
 Lives offered up in Freedom's cause
 While we but lend an earthly treasure.
 With all we have we must support
 Our men and women in this fight
 That peace may come again to Earth
 And all the world be ruled by right.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

Relatives who haven't received Fifth Victory Loan bonds yet as bought by our troops overseas, will get them soon according to National Defence Headquarters at Ottawa. Application forms were, of course, originally completed in the field, a large number from the Mediterranean area. Delivery of the bonds will be hastened when the application forms reach Ottawa from Canadian Military Headquarters in London.

Another boost for the Red Cross. Recently 200 English wives of Canadian soldiers and 83 babies born of the marriages, reached this country, part of the 16,000 brides Canucks have taken in the United Kingdom Representatives of the Canadian Red Cross met them at point of disembarkation, accompanied them to Montreal and Toronto, giving them the low down on our money, rationing, customs and geography.

In the proposal of the United States to buy 175 million bushels of wheat from Canada in 1944, the plan is that the buyers will move 40 million bushels direct from western country points in U.S. railway cars; 30 million other Pacific ports, and 105 million by lake ship during the current season of navigation.

Reduction of the butter ration by eight ounces starting this month, until further notice, has been brought about by decreased production in November, December and January — 5,400,000 lbs. below that of a year ago. An important factor in the decline was the 1943-44 winter subsidy payments which diverted milk from butter to cheese production.

FARM NOTES

SEEDING TIME

The importance of starting plants early enough in the spring by sowing indoors in window boxes or in hotbeds cannot be over emphasized if the best results are to be obtained from the plants of those crops that should be produced by that means, states T. F. Ritchie, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

As a rule, from six to eight weeks prior to the time when such plants can be set out in the field will be about the right time for sowing the seed. When seed is sown earlier than this it is difficult to produce stocky, vigorous plants without giving many extra transplantings or subjecting the plants to severe checking in an effort to prevent excessive growth.

Experiments have shown that plants that have made continuous, unchecked growth from the time the seed was sown until the plants were set out in the field gave the best returns. The popular, old theory was that to get early maturity it was necessary to sow seed early and transplant a number of times, as well as to subject the plants to severe hardening off before planting out time. This old method resulted in doing much unnecessary work and in many cases produced disappointing returns. It can safely be said that the best financial return results where well grown stocky plants are used.

When seed is purchased growers are reminded that only the best seed of recommended varieties should be obtained.

Warble Fly Control

The province wide warble fly control campaign in Alberta is getting under way, and District Agriculture-ists throughout the province are spearheading the attack on this pest in their districts.

J. L. Eaglesham, Supervisor of Pest Control, advises that assured supplies of warble powder will be ample, but care should be taken that no wastage occurs. The supply of deris, a constituent of warble powder, is limited, and the importance of warble fly control in our production programme is indicated by the measures taken to restrict the use of deris, almost entirely, to the armed forces and for this emergency warble fly control programme.

The annual loss per animal in Alberta is estimated at between 5 and 10 dollars. 60 per cent of Alberta hides are known to be unfit for fine quality leather due to perforation by the warble grub. In addition to damage to hides, milk and beef losses are considerable. No animal can be expected to produce to capacity if tortured in the summer by heel flies, or irritated in the winter by acting as host during the earlier stages of the insect.

A wide effort to eradicate the pest is anticipated and although some 350,000 head of cattle were treated last season, it is hoped that the response this year will result in at least doubling that figure. The benefit—both financial and otherwise—of warble fly treatment is so obvious after the first use, that cattle owners who are familiar with the results usually incorporate treatment for this pest as an integral part of their operations. The time for action is almost here. Control measures should begin early so that no warbles drop from the animal before treatment is applied. This may necessitate some cattle owners giving the first treatment as early as February 15th.

Although individual effort is commendable, community effort provides the real control. The Department is looking towards many warble free areas in this province, and if members of communities will get together and have all cattle treated, the district can be made free from heel flies for several years.

A special effort is being made to arrange for at least one retailer in each community to handle a supply of warble powder, but anyone who is unable to obtain his requirement locally is asked to contact his District Agriculturist.

A Seed Field On The Farm

Good seed is scarcer than it has been for years. A number of seed fields did not pass inspection. Much true-to-variety seed, too, was harmed by early frosts. In addition Western seed has been in great demand in Eastern Canada.

Numbers of farmers, therefore, will not be able to purchase the quantities of Registered seed, particularly of wheat, they would like to have. More and more, however, I am convinced that a splendid method for each farmer to adopt is to lay down each year a seed field on his own farm in this way:

Purchase enough Registered seed sealed in the sack to sow say five acres of clean summerfallow, keep the crop separate from adjoining fields, harvest and thresh the crop carefully so that it does not become mixed, and either sack the seed at threshing time or put it into a clean bin. Multiply this seed the next year on a larger acreage, and then the farmer should have sufficient of the highest quality seed to sow his whole farm, and some left over to sell to his neighbors. Even this year farmers may still be able to pick up enough Registered seed to carry out at least this modest program of a "Seed Field on the Farm".

Rumania has a large grain surplus but prospects for any important export trade are reported poor—Australia's wheat and flour exports have been reduced by approximately 50% on account of Japan's entry into the war—Boothall reports the condition of the Indian wheat crop as unfavourable; only a small yield is indicated in the important province of the Punjab.

The U.S. farm cash income for 1943 is estimated at $19,000,000,000 as compared with $15,336,000,000 in 1942. Turkey officially announces that the cereal harvest in 1943 totalled over 5 million tons, sufficient for domestic requirements—Conditions continue favourable for the Argentine corn crop in nearly all sections of the country.

Cowboy Soldier

Chapter Eleven

You know, there is something sort of majestic about these British Isles. They're sort of big and old, just like the Rockies, and they sort of affect you the same way.

Take that trip I was telling you about—the one to Edinburgh just after we landed. It was really a treat and I guess the part I liked about it best of all was visiting Edinburgh Castle and seeing the dungeon where they kept Mary Queen of Scots for some little time. It sort of gave me the creeps.

Since then I've made a little jaunt up to London and it's funny but the nicest thing about that trip was eating—hotcakes and good old maple syrup from home which they serve at the Beaver Club. I ate plenty because you never know when you'll get another feed like that.

One thing I saw in London really set me to thinking. You know those great stone lions they have in Trafalgar Square. Well, one of those old fellows has lost a foot in a bombing raid and it seems to me that is a sort of sure sign as far as winning the war is concerned.

When I was home I got a few trips up into the mountains hunting mountain lions and I sure remember that the toughest of the clan to tangle with was one that had been wounded. That lion in Trafalgar Square sort of hits me the same way. It seems like it is a symbol of Britain who was right sorely wounded but she's fighting back now and sure getting the upper hand.

All the history books in the world couldn't begin to give a fellow a proper impression of England. The more we stay here the more we can see why those folks over home who came from here are always talking about the Old Country.

There are things, though, that sort of get a fellow mixed up. Take for instance this right hand driving. When we first landed and saw the drivers ambulating down the wrong side of the street—that is as far as we were concerned—it was just natural to think they had one to many in one of the pats, but we're getting used to it now.

These blackouts seem to be some bother to the fellows who were raised in cities over home but it doesn't bother me. We never did have any more light than a lantern or a camp fire when we were out on the range and I can find my way around right quickly and without much trouble. What I can't get used to is the fog.

Another thing here that would be good for the folks at home would be lessons against careless talk. We read about it over home but we're not really so particular about it as these Englishmen are.

One of our boys was going to Edinburgh and stopped over at Carlyle. He wasn't sure which track the train would be coming in on so he asked an old fellow on the station platform. The old fellow pulled out his watch which was as big as a turnip and said, "There's plenty of time. Why don't you go over and get a cup of coffee?" Our buddy started out and the citizen was gone before the Canuck got wise that he still didn't know which track the Edinburgh train was coming in on.

That just shows that you can't get information. For all the old fellow knew our buddy might have been a saboteur in a Canadian uniform and he wasn't taking any chances.

Hints for the Household

This week's "Star" recipe is a regular war-time recipe for it describes a hot, healthful and delicious dish that calls for practically no precious ration points. Try it once and it will be a "regular" on your table:

Corn & Casserole

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 1/4 cups milk
1 1/2 cups Bran flakes, finely crushed
2 cups canned whole kernel corn, drained

1 egg, well beaten
Place green pepper, onion, and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan and cook gently until tender. Add flour and seasonings and stir until smooth. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 3/4 cup flakes, corn, and egg. Turn in to greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Melt remaining 1/2 cup butter or margarine and pour over remaining 3/4 cup flakes. Toss lightly to mix. Sprinkle over top of corn. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Oranges, lemons and cranberries combine to make many healthful and delicious dishes. The affinity is particularly desirable in salads and sherberts. Below you will find two or three recipes that bear out this assertion admirably.

Orange Cranberry Relish Salad

2 oranges
1 lemon
2 apples
1 pound (4 cups) fresh cranberries
2 1/2 cups sugar
Quarter unpeeled oranges, lemon and apples, remove seeds and core and put through food chopper. Put cranberries through food chopper. Combine, add sugar and blend. Let stand a few hours. Use as a relish with meats, hot or cold.

Cranberry Sherbet

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
2 1/2 cups water
2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/3 cup lemon juice
Cook cranberries and water until all the skins pop open. Strain, and add sugar and gelatin, softened in cold water. Heat until dissolved. Cool and add lemon juice. Pour into tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze until firm (3 to 4 hours).

Cranberry Ambrosia

2 cups sugar
3 cups water
2 apples
2 oranges
2 cups cranberries
Boil sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Add peeled and sliced apples and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Add oranges, cut in thin slices, and cranberries, and continue cooking for 10 minutes longer. Serve cold with meat or poultry, or as a dessert.

Baked Bean Soup

Melt 4 tablespoons butter or margarine in a double boiler; then remove from the heat and add 4 tablespoons flour, blending thoroughly. Add 5 cups stock or water with 4 bouillon cubes and 1 slice onion and cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring frequently. Add 1 cup quick-frozen baked beans slowly to the stock mixture, stirring constantly. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3, make half this recipe.

Orange and Greens Salad

4 cups coarsely shredded salad greens
1/4 cup sliced, stuffed green olives
1/3 cup diced orange sections
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/3 cup olive oil
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt to taste
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Select a variety of greens and wash well, and crisp. Add olives, orange sections, and chopped green pepper. Just before serving, add French dressing made by combining oil, lemon juice and seasonings. Toss lightly together, mixing well. Serve in a bowl or on individual salad plates. Serves 6 to 8.

Orange Cooler

2 cups orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice
1 cup ginger ale
2 tablespoons honey
1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 tablespoons sliced maraschino cherries
Mix fruit juices and ginger ale; add honey; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add ice cream; stir until blended. Serve in chilled glasses and top with cherry slices. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

A little sugar goes a long way when you invest it in a batch of doughnuts. You can, in fact, make two dozen of these crisp and toothsome cakes from a recipe that calls for a half cup of sugar.

And be sure not to burn the fat in which you fry the doughnuts. Strain it carefully and keep it in the refrigerator to use again.

You can keep doughnuts successfully—if there are any left over after the first serving—by piling them in a covered glass or metal container with wadded waxed paper between layers.

The dough cut out of the center of doughnuts can be easily fried into delicious "nuts" that may be served with canned fruit, soft custard or applesauce for most toothsome desserts. Try rolling some of these "nuts" in sugar mixed with a little cinnamon or nutmeg.

Speaking of Breakfast

There are breakfasts and breakfasts! Is yours one that will give your body the best possible start for the day's work and recreation that lies ahead—or is it merely the cup of coffee that gives brief stimulation without providing energy and stamina? To start the day without breakfast is like trying to run an automobile without gas or oil.

If we slight breakfast, it is almost impossible to secure a sufficient amount of food, and the recommended daily amounts of those important food essentials at other meals. Some one has stated that "if more children ate an adequate breakfast before coming to school, we would see more A's on the report cards and fewer A's in the register because of illness."

An adequate breakfast is a nourishing meal that will supply the foods which you are not apt to eat in the other meals, and also is a meal that is substantial in "breaking the fast" and supplying energy for a new day. An adequate breakfast also contains the energy-giving foods and the regulating foods. It should supply about one-fourth of the daily calories, and should always be considered in planning the day's meals as a whole.

Growing children need to have fruit or fruit juice, a cooked whole-grain cereal, occasionally interchanged with a ready-to-eat cereal, an egg toast, and all the milk they can drink. Remember that good breakfasts get the day off to a good start.

CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

Enormous Yields

Those unfamiliar with actual gardening are always amazed at the amount of vegetables a plot a few yards square can produce. Handled properly, a piece of ground 12 feet wide and 25 feet long should yield practically all the vegetables, except potatoes, a small family will require from early July until frost.

For ease in cultivation, rows should run across the width, not the length of the plot, and they can be as close together as 12 inches for little, narrow and early stuff like lettuce, radish and carrots, about 15 inches for beets and beans and 18 inches for corn and tomatoes. To save room and induce early and clean fruits, the latter should be staked with all side branches pinched off.

Space can be saved by alternating early vegetables like radish, spinach and lettuce with later maturing sorts like beets, carrots and onions. By the time the second group really require all room the first will have been removed and eaten.

Prepare Thoroughly

In these small, intensive vegetable gardens, as so many Victory gardeners found last season, it is essential to prepare the ground thoroughly in advance, to dig it well and get out all twigs and other weeds before the vegetables are planted. It is far more difficult to get out big weeds and grass roots after the vegetables are planted than before.

Another important point is thinning. Beets, carrots, lettuce, radish and all small seed vegetables should be thinned once so that those plants left can develop quickly and without crowding or checking. An inch apart will do for beets and carrots and seed onions, and then when more room is necessary one can take out every other plant and use for the table. Carrots and beets an inch in diameter make excellent eating.

Plot Planting Advantages

Even where one has a whole farm at one's disposal it is a good plan to grow certain vegetables in small plots where they can be cultivated often and watered if necessary. This advice especially applies to carrots, beets, lettuce, radish, seed onions, parsnips and such things. Vegetables of this type seem to thrive better in small compact plots than in long rows out in the field. On the other hand, beans, peas, corn, potatoes, etc., seem to do better under field conditions.

Peas, for instance, do not fit in a tiny space, because at least 30 feet of row will be necessary to produce a decent family meal, and corn is almost in the same category, something like a dozen hills being necessary for minimum results. One can harvest beans from a row ten feet long every other day for a couple of weeks or more. As, however, they are susceptible to disease especially when damp, they are best grown in rows where they will not be disturbed when wet with rain or dew.

Lawn Work

As soon as the frost goes out it is time to put up protecting stakes and wire and as soon as one can walk on the grass without miring it is time to plant seed. One can hardly sow the seed too early. Lawns should be rolled when ground is soft.

NEXT WEEK—Hardy vegetables and flowers, nursery stock.

Hero of Ortona

By Private R.L. Cameron

A haze of dust and gun smoke lay heavily over Casa Berardi, tiny Italian hamlet on the Ortona-Osogna road. From every splintered window, every wall and pile of crumbled masonry, spewed leaden death and high explosives. German infantry and tanks had made a hot spot of Casa Berardi; a death trap of the deep gully, planned down by murderous fire, a badly battered company of French Canada's famous Royal 22nd grinded their teeth, hung on and fought back. They had been ordered to assault Casa Berardi—and take it. Only a countermarching order could stop them trying.

Flattened behind scanty cover lay 35-year-old Major Paul Triquet, of Cabano, Quebec, the only officer not wounded or dead. Half his men were killed or out of action. Enemy fire was cutting into his dwindling force from both flanks. The moment was desperate. He couldn't stay where he was. But to retire—after having fought such a long and bloody way—

Suddenly bursts of enemy fire crashed out behind him. His weary soldiers swung around to face the new attack. They were getting it on all sides now. Something had to be done and at once!

Major Paul Triquet did it. Leaping to his feet he scrambled over the rubble and waved his "Van Doos" forward.

"The enemy's in front of us! Behind us! On our flanks!" he yelled above the din, "There's only one safe place. That's on the objective!"

This week, those brave words have been flashed to all corners of the Allied world—and beyond. The story of how Paul Triquet won the Victoria Cross, how he led his men out of a certain death-trap, fought a way down into that murderous gully and up the other side and slugged it out with the enemy until the tattered remnants of his tiny band reached and held the outskirts of Casa Berardi itself—is already a Canadian legend.

Paul Triquet has become a national hero. The second Canadian soldier to win the V.C. in this greatest of all wars. The third member of the world famous Royal 22nd Regiment to receive the highest recognition of bravery the King can bestow on a soldier.

But the exploit of this tall, lean French-Canadian soldier has won more than a medal. It has captured the imagination of Allied fighting men everywhere. It has sent a ripple of wonderful pride through the whole of Canada.

At Cabano, Quebec, the little hamlet of his birth, people are speaking his name with tears in their eyes. And pride—Has not Paul Triquet proved himself a true soldier of Canada? Is he not the soldier son of Major Georges Triquet who fought to defend his beloved France in 1914, and today, at 63, commands "A" company of Les Fusiliers du Saint-Laurent, a unit of reserves? Is he not the grandson of Louis-Desire Triquet, who fought the Hun half a century before that in the Franco-Prussian War? And the great-grandson of another Paul Triquet, who endured the hardships of, and won glory in, the Crimea?

Yes, they will tell you, these Cabano folk who remember him as a little lad in short pants, Paul is all these things. A typical Triquet.

The restless, fighting blood of those Triquets stirred early in Paul's veins. When Major Georges Triquet, a firm believer in military training and discipline, organized a cadet corps in the village, his son Paul was the first to join up.

By day he labored in the nearby sawmill; by night he fed his imagination on the stirring stories of famous soldiers and regiments of Canada and France.

At sixteen he travelled all the way to Quebec City to try to enlist, insisting to the recruiting sergeant that he was actually 17 years of age. But he couldn't make it. Disconsolate, he returned home. The next year was a restless ordeal of waiting. Finally came his 17th birthday and his fighter's heritage could no longer be denied. He journeyed again to Quebec. This time he convinced the officials he was a full two years older than he was, and got sworn in with the regiment of his choice—in the Royal 22nd, the "Van Doos."

His father was proud of his son, without reservations. His mother, like all mothers, was proud too, but anxious.

But Paul was happy. Now he could live the life he loved. Now he could do the job he was born to do. It was 1926, and many of the men who marched and drilled beside him were veterans of Ypres salient, Sanctuary Wood, Mont Sorrel, Saint-Eloi, the Somme and Courcellette and many another bloody battle of the Great War.

From them Paul learned to love his regiment. Its glorious record, its famous names and its long tradition were soon written indelibly in his imagination.

Meanwhile, he focussed all his will on the business of war. His uncanny ability to concentrate, to learn and in turn to teach, amazed his comrades. Unconsciously they accepted him as a natural leader.

Then came 1939, and war. The "Van Doos" went Overseas. Paul Triquet had his chance. More than half the men in the regiment, including Paul's younger brother, 19-year-old Bernard had at some time or other trained with his father's cadets.

Overseas, Paul was made instructor at a commando school. His physical fitness, self-discipline and inborn flair for leadership now got full play. His experience as physical instructor at schools and colleges throughout Quebec, during his peacetime army years, paid untold dividends. Hundreds of commandos learned many a trick from Sergeant-Major Paul Triquet.

During the landing on Sicily and the heavy fighting which followed, Paul Triquet won promotion to the acting rank of captain. That was in July, 1943. Three months later his rank was confirmed. Word of his promotion to the rank of Acting-Major reached Paul via a tank radio during the midst of battle on the 13th of December, 1943.

All Together Does It!

Thanks for the helping hand

In addition to the difficulty of obtaining stocks of lumber for local customers, Beaver Lumber is further hampered by a serious manpower shortage.

Many Beaver men have gone into the greater field of service in the armed forces. Those who are still on the job have had to carry on under trying conditions.

Working long hours, willingly and cheerfully, the Beaver Lumber agent has endeavored to give good service—and has been largely successful—thanks to the sympathetic and helpful co-operation of the local customers, without which it could not be done.

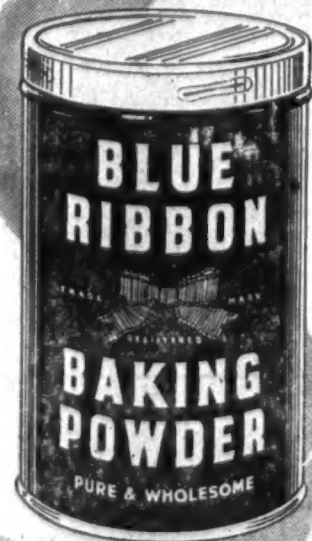

For the best selection of materials available, and for the best service, please talk over your requirements with the Beaver agent at an early date.

ALBERTA'S Liquor SITUATION

The Alberta Liquor Control Board is faced today with the cold mathematics of trying to supply more than double the number of permit holders with heavily curtailed liquor quotas. Greater demand rather than reduced supply is mainly responsible for the situation.

The Alberta Liquor Control Board purchased in 1942 base year, 242,611 gallons; actual sales in 1942—215,111 gallons. From these figures it is seen that the amount purchased was in excess of sales by 27,500 gallons, which went into stock. In 1943, the Alberta quota for liquor was 169,827 gallons (70 per cent of 1942 purchases). Of this amount, only 157,009 gallons was received. Thus, the province received 12,818 gallons less than it was allowed under its quota.

The sales for 1943 totalled 218,207 gallons. The difference between the amount received and the amount sold was made up out of stocks on hand.
